KEYNOTE SPEAKER

DR. ROSS TODD

Associate Professor – Rutgers University, School of Communication, Information and Library Studies
Director of the Center for International Scholarship in School Libraries (CISSL)

Ross Todd's research primarily focuses on the engagement of people and their information worlds and his interests are in evidence based practice and guided inquiry learning. Against this broad backdrop, his research concentrates on the transformative role of school libraries in 21st century schools, their integral role in the learning fabric of schools, and their role in ongoing school improvement and reform.
